

What Am I Doing Here?

YOU ARE DEARLY LOVED.

“Why?” is a question many of you are asking at this time. You want to know “why.” You feel that you have the right. You wish to know “why” this had happened and that had happened, “why” it happened to you and not to your friend. You ask your angels “why” as if the answer will take the weight off your shoulders and miraculously make everything better. Your main question is “why?” followed by “why me?” Our answer to you is: do not ask “why” but “how.”

How what, you may wonder? How do I move from the place I am, into a higher place where the vista will open up and allow me an entryway to the whys?

When you ask for the “why,” you wish to receive a simple explanation that will allow your linear mind to find peace. You wish to receive a story like in your holy texts where you have done so and so, and that is why you are receiving such and such. With a smile, we wish to impart to you that the story is much larger than you can ever imagine. The story of the “whys” is always in the circle, whereas the mechanism of the “whys” is in the 4-D physical reality. You can only imagine what you see, and when you do not see or sense something, you are not able to imagine it. You are told from an early age to stop imagining things and get back to reality. Your reality is limited by what you can and cannot imagine. Those things that you are able to conceive can also be manifested in your physical reality.

Why are you telling us about these confusing ideas, some may wonder?

It's time, is our answer.

You have asked to know and we are here to tell you what you need to know so you can advance on your journey. We wish to take you with us one more time on our imaginary spaceship and show you what your Earth looks like from above. It is beautiful. It looks like a blue pearl shining and glowing in the vast empty space that surrounds it. From our spaceship you can see the ocean currents and you can see clouds. You can see the light parts, and the dark comes in as the Earth is rotating on its axis, moving along its trajectory around the sun. When we bring the spaceship a little closer, you begin to see shapes and colors, light radiating from everywhere. You can hear overlapping melodies, and when observed all together it is as if you are watching the ultimate Broadway show or Hollywood special effects movie. Then you get closer and you see the individual human as she walks on her way to somewhere. All around her there are geometric shapes and colors continuously changing. She is also emitting a melodic sound that is unheard by the human ear but it is heard loud and clear by all of us. Then we take you even closer inside that human. There you become aware of trillions of actions taking place simultaneously, keeping that human alive and functioning. As we get closer and closer, taking our spaceship into one of the blood vessels of that individual, you begin to understand the mechanics of spirit.

From the far reaches of the universe to the individual cell that is inside an angel, God is at work. When a person sits down to meditate there are trillions and trillions of energetic conversations, exchanges of energy happening within that individual. At the same time that this individual is sitting to meditate, we ask you to zoom in your imagination to a place one thousand light-years away into the center of a beautiful, magical galaxy. There you will find trillions and trillions of energetic exchanges in conversation taking place as well. You are a piece of biology with a twist, and the twist is that you carry the seed of God in each one of your cells. The mechanics of your biology hold the key to the universe. It is why we tell you that you contain all you need, and you create what you need when you are in the now.

What does it mean, you may still wonder?

It means that you are the creator. As a creator you hold within you the key to unraveling the full scope of the magnificent creation that expresses itself all around you. We ask you in so many ways to wake up to your power because you hold the key. It is inside of you. Our spaceship is able to move from one thousand light-years away into the blood vessel of a human walking on your street in a matter of a thought which is not even in the realm of a nanosecond. In your current level of technology it would be considered instantaneous. Size is never an issue and space is never an issue. Traveling in the vast space of your visible universe does not require time.

How does one travel, some of you may want to know?

Traveling happens through thoughts. As you imagine where you are, you are already there. That is why we speak to you about your limited imagination. The key to your ascension in vibration is hidden in your awareness and ability to imagine who you are. When you let your imagination free, you are free, and when you control it, directing it to where you think you should be, it is as if you are writing yourself the script to your dream world. Your dream time is when you travel in an instant because you are not limited by your logical mind which asks you for “whys” and “hows.”

Why are you telling us about all this, some may ask in frustration?

The “whys” of your life are not as important as the awareness of the “hows.”

How do I move forward when my reality does not add up in my logical mind? What do I hold on to at such a time?

With love, we wish you that you hold on to your divinity, hold on to love, hold on to trust, and hug yourself all the time. There is a magnificent story that is being told and it is unfolding as we speak. Our spaceship can pick you up and shuttle you from a place full of light one thousand light-years away into the blood vessel of a human walking or shopping at a store in an instant. Your ability to move within this vast space/time dimension is part of the story that is now unfolding. You must learn to shut down your senses and ignite your imagination. This is why we ask you to be childlike. Children are your guides at this time. They show you that there are no limits to what magic reality holds. Reality is a story that they create as they walk through their enchanted forest encountering fairies and imaginary friends. They also can see leprechauns, elves, trolls, and other magical creatures. Some of your children can also see the geometric shapes around you, hear your melody, and see your aura. They are coming here more enabled than you are because they represent your evolutionary path.

Did we tell you yet that we love you?

You tell us all the time but we do not sense it, some may say.

Love is not the love you are exchanging between people. Love is the energetic substance that makes the reality of God, and that is the most ample in our realm. When we tell you that you are loved, we are inviting you to our realm and link you to your expanded dimension. Words carry a vibration that rides on your frequency and creates a link. Through that link, the energy from the different dimensions is being transferred.

Where am I going, you want to know?

You are changing, is our answer. You are moving higher. You are becoming lighter.

Good, some of you may say, I have been trying to lose those pounds for years.

Yes, indeed, we say with a smile. The gravity that holds you anchored to this planet is easing up and your energetic body is now allowed to expand. There will be some who will begin to experience the type of traveling we described by will and not as a one-time occurrence. This is enabled at this time. The only thing that holds you from exploring dimensions and realities beyond your wildest dreams is your imagination. You must let it loose and become free of the way things “ought” to be.

We still do not get what it is about, some may claim.

It is about expansion of your awareness of who you are and what your mission on Earth is at this time. Your mission is to awaken to who you really are. When you do, you see divinity everywhere you look. It is then that you shine your light and emit love to yourself, knowing that all you encounter is there to lead you to your highest potential. When you are in that place of love you radiate that energy to all those who come in contact with you and to the elements of nature. You also change the electromagnetic structure of the soil you walk on so it will be in support of an ascending planet. When you walk immersed in the vibration of love you move into alignment, harmonizing with the resonance of the natural world and the dimensions of spirit. When you are in this elevated resonance you are celebrated because you are home—linked with your higher part walking the elevated path. You contain within you all the universes in all dimensions, and there are more than a few. You, the one reading these lines, are the key to the unfolding of the biggest shift in consciousness your planet has seen since its birth.

Are you still feeling powerless?

The way you are built and the cellular structure of your biology is a hologram. Like your DNA that holds the blueprint to your whole being, you are holding the key to the blueprint of the entire universe. What you do affects all of us. When you change one DNA coding, you are changing the entire blueprint. We ask you to awaken because when you are in your power shining your light, you are changing the entire planetary blueprint. It is as if an architect took a pencil and began to draw on the existing plans. The ones who are reading these messages, and who resonate with our words, are the architects of the shift in the planetary blueprint—no small task. It is why we ask you to come to your power beginning now, as now is the only time that is aligned between you and spirit. Our dimension has no tomorrow and no yesterday; it is all in the “now.”

What should we do then, some may still wonder?

Sit down, close your eyes, sense your breath, and connect with your heartbeat. Touch your heart with your hand and say out loud, "I am divinity; I am love; I am honored; I am in my power; I am open now to be shown the high road to where I can be fully in my mission. I have no fear; I have only trust and love." Open the palm of your hands and allow our vibration to tingle through your fingers. Give yourself a hug and allow yourself to feel our hugs. Know that we shed tears of joy with you. The power of your intent is the step necessary to join your melody with others, creating a symphony that is changing the planetary blueprint towards peace on Earth, and so be it.
