

And So Be It

YOU ARE DEARLY LOVED.

We are still waiting for you, hugging you, and holding you in our arms. Through this ordeal, not once are you left alone. Not once are you forsaken, and you are always loved. Our commitment is for eternity. We are always by your side no matter how challenging and difficult your path may seem.

Why are you telling us this again, some may wonder?

For a moment you have forgotten that you have an entourage at your service. At times we see you walking your path as if you are alone. As we wrap our wings around your fragile frame, we ask you to close your eyes, activate your inner vision, and feel us hovering all around you. Some of you may even smell our fragrance. We wish you to open up your inner vision, allow our love to be felt, and allow us to guide you on your journey. Your journey is second to none in this universe of free choice, and you are the one who directs, at any given moment, the movie of your choosing. You select the players, the scenery, the timing, and you create the storyboard—all for one purpose.

What is that purpose, some may wonder?

The purpose is to find yourself, your own divinity, and truly discover who you are. You come here to this remote planet in a hidden, scarcely populated area of your galaxy, believing that you are separated from everything, and through your inner process you must discover your oneness with all that is. Your oneness must be found within you. Once you discover who you are and begin to live your mission, the road opens up and you create ripples of oneness which circulate. Like a magnet, you attract all the pieces of your life together into one unified field. That unified field is made out of the substance of love. Once you radiate love, you are shining and sparkling like a star in the night sky. Many of you believe that the process of becoming one is through serving God. Belief in God is equivalent to belief in self. Belief in self must come from love of self. Many of you begin by loving God, wanting to serve, yet you soon find out that the road reaches a dead end so you can no longer advance.

Why is that so, some may wish to know?

It is because you started from the end. Who do you think God is? When you begin searching outside yourself you give your love to God, and we see some of you wondering when you will receive love in return. This puzzle has been waiting for you to discover from the day you began your journey. Collectively, you are God. You are it, and when we say to you "And So Be It," we ask you to awaken to your divinity.

We are here to awaken you to your true identity so you can act as the lighthouse you were meant to be. When we take you by the hand, we ask you to trust your path, knowing that you are being shown the highway to a new reality. Nothing that you know will stay the same; all of you are undergoing a shift that is spiritual, biological, and physical. You are moving from one level to the next higher level. It is not a choice anymore whether to ascend or not, as your planet is ascending so that all of you must either join this ride or step off the planet, recharge, and come back more equipped. We know who you are, and you are so dearly loved. There is a powerful yearning for some of you who are of high vibration to help us from our side. We ask you to stay where you are because your light is needed here on your planet. On our side there is only light, and you will join us soon enough. You are never judged; your choices are sacred, and you are honored above all. You are part of the energy of Gaia, and where she goes, you go. You may resist, but that may only make your journey more challenging.

What are you telling us, some may ask?

We are asking you to open up to the mechanics of your journey, trusting that you are loved and cared for. We are asking you to follow your feelings as they represent the guidance from spirit. We ask you to use love in your interactions with your brothers and sisters, your Earth, the natural world—most importantly, with yourself. We ask you to walk as if there is an entourage of angels all around you caring for you, because in all truth, we are around you and we never leave.

We wish to speak to you about your next step. Your biology is now changing and your cells are being furnished with new capabilities. Many of you are losing sleep because the body must reintegrate the new coding that is being sent to you from the galactic transmitters and facilitators, delivered mostly through your sun. You think you are alone in the universe. If you could see the preparation that is taking place all around your precious planet in anticipation of its graduation, you would be in awe.

The next chapter in the story, now unfolding, is that many of you must clear up your past anchors, strings, and the heavy residues accumulated through the cycles, so you may become lighter, vibrating at your highest potential. To many of you it feels as if the opposite is happening, and that you are being held back by seemingly endless problems and obstacles, which show up as health, financial, relationship, and emotional issues. Understand the sacredness of these signposts. You are here to clear all that needed to be cleared and to do it now. The meaning of accelerated time is that you are now living, reliving, and clearing all your clutter buried deep in your drawers, stored in the akashic library, so you can make room for a new blueprint to manifest itself. This new blueprint will manifest into a New Earth. Many of you lightworkers who signed up to shine your light feel that you are carrying the load for everyone else, and there are many roadblocks on your path to shining. We hear you say at night, "If you wish me to shine, why do you place so many blocks in my way?" We know who you are. Trust that all these blocks and issues are just an illusion waiting to be blown away, swept to the side. It feels insurmountable but it is not. Your linear time is just an illusion. If you try to resolve everything on your plate through your linear thinking and calculating, we promise you that you will have plenty of clutter left. The accelerated path has to be walked one leg on Earth and the other in heaven. You must be connected to your higher guidance, following it with trust.

It is the age of miracles, and you cannot expect magic when you are in your logical frame of mind. You must be open and trusting to allow the energy of magic to flow so it will interact with your biology, with your environment. The history of your stored heavy residue archived in your akash is being cleared worldwide. The akashic records are stored in crystals buried deep in the belly of Gaia. They are now being reprogrammed, through the crystalline grid, to prepare for a new vision of Earth. It is a magnificent sight. There are many bumps in this road, and as you move faster it feels like the ground is shaking under your feet. In fact, since it is you who are moving faster, you must then jump over many more of these hurdles to become clear and free. We wish to tell you that when you move away from heaviness, you are like us—an angel. Once gravity loosens up its grip, you can fly.

Your mission now is to become aware and to awaken, so you can transform what you experience, elevating your vibration as high as you can. Being in higher vibration does not mean that drama disappears and you have no more challenges. Higher vibration means that everything that presents itself to you is seen as sacred. Receive it as a gift and welcome it with gratitude. You then clear this gift by purifying it using the spray of self-love and sending it back to Gaia. Gaia will transform it. The residues that you clear will never come back. Your mission is to rewrite your storyboard, implanting it back into your akashic library so it can manifest the new vision for you and the planet. Your single candle can create such luminosity that you gift your family/friends circle with a sacred choice to awaken and begin to see, as well.

Yes, that is nice, but I am sick and I feel old, tired. I am also not doing well financially, we hear some of you whisper to yourselves. How can we carry our burden as well as shine our light?

With a hug, we wish to tell you that this is your mission. What you carry is a choice that you made, and you have a choice to clear this burden, moving higher at any moment. You wanted to clear your heavy part and this is your chance. "I am tired," we hear you say to yourself so no one could hear. We hear you and we know who you are. We know that you are tired and we ask you to give us a hand so we can help pull you. Some of you give us a hand and then also use a cane. When you ask for help, trust that you will be shown the way. Clearing is a sacred process and at times may feel unpleasant. If you hold on to your current pole, then set intent to clear, understand that you are resisting your own movement forward. To clear in this accelerated time you must let go of the "must do" and "must have." Then, let go of the "what if" and "how will I?" When you wake up in the morning, give yourself a hug and ask to be shown the way to clear the heaviness from your life, moving forward. Ask to be shown the way to balance and health, then let go. Ask to create love within you; trust and let go. Your entourage will spring into action, as your request is sacred, and you will be given not one hand but a dozen to pull you forward. Quiet yourself enough to hear the directions, and slow your pace enough to see the road signs. All you need is catered to you. Many of you are conditioned to follow a path that was already paved by others. It is a new era, and you are the one who must pave your own path using your own compass. You are built for it; you have the power, and you came for this purpose. We ask you to release your resistance so you can allow the heaviness to stay on the ground and become part of the soil where it belongs.

We are afraid that we will lose everything, we hear you say.

Indeed you will, we say with a smile. You will lose some weight, you may lose your fears, and you may lose your health issues. You may even lose your drama. You could also lose a friend or two, but you will gain mastery over gravity. An angel is one who can fly. It is your mission at this time to spread your wings and ascend. This is your purpose, and your wings are built into your vessel. We love you. With a hug, we ask you to awaken to the grandest time of human history, play your part, and so be it.
