

The Void

YOU ARE DEARLY LOVED.

Like a leaf twirling in the wind you are being carried by the movement of energy all around you. Desperately you tighten your grip with all your power, trying to remain connected to the tree branch held glued by the thin stem. As the wind velocity increases you realize the futility of remaining attached and you let go of your grasp. While attached to the tree the leaf transforms light into energy through photosynthesis, absorbing carbon dioxide and releasing oxygen. As the leaf falls to the ground it serves Gaia by enriching the soil, breaking down into the different elements that can be used by the tree to grow and thrive. The leaf serves Gaia whether attached or detached from its tree without waste—reflect the sacredness of nature's cycles fulfilling their different missions in reaction to the movement around. Nature is your teacher. You are part of this Earth, no different from the tree and its leaves. Reacting to the wind is your natural programming—protecting, fearing, holding, hiding, and becoming heavier, when all that is asked of you is to offer gratitude, remain present, and let go knowing that all is well. This is a sacred process that all of you must experience within the divine blueprint you envisioned in the design room. Following your heart, knowing that you are loved, and experiencing the web of cords that connects all of you with invisible strings—these concepts are not simply pretty words. These concepts represent the path for all of you regardless of whether you are awakened or fast asleep. That is why we tell you that there is never a judgment on your path as an angel disguised as human. Like a leaf you serve the growth of consciousness. Whether you are part of the tree—attached or on the ground, detached—you are never too far. All has its appropriateness and is harmonious with your vibration, melody, colors, and lights.

Metaphorically, it is the fall season on Earth. The season has changed in the ever cyclical movement of the human journey towards a higher vibratory rate. More of you than ever before in human history on Earth are now on the path to discover your divinity, awaken to your mastery, and become a shining light. Now it is your turn, as the day becomes shorter and the wind blows from the north detaching many stems from their trees.

Consciousness, like your seasons, offers you energetic waves on which to ride. Following the fall is winter—a time to go deep within and explore the invisible strings that connect you to all that you “see” around you. Following the winter comes the spring where all that was hibernating must awaken and continue the cycle of growth. These seasons represent your movement within your inner seasons of awakening as a collective consciousness. Fall’s winds have knocked down many leaves, and you are now moving into a period of hibernation so you may have an opportunity to go deeper within. It is an opportunity for many to take stock of their lives—re-evaluating priorities, reconnecting with long-lost loves, detaching from those relationships which no longer support you, aligning with your truth and light. We always wish to hold your hand and tell you that all is perfect. Everything and anything that you experience is a movie designed for you, by you, to give you a story line to move higher. You are the creator, and many of you are now creating magnificent story lines that will be played out for generations to come. Many of you are now invoking your invisible wings, riding on pockets of hot air which carry you higher and higher into realms that could only be imagined in dreams a few years ago. Your thoughts manifest faster than ever before, and your emotional frequency ripples more potently than ever—shifting, prodding, and eliminating, all the while affecting your physical landscape. Your human relationships are the physical strings that glue all of you together. You are one consciousness, fragmented into billions of light particles. Realizing your power can turn your planet into a light source via alchemy, birthing the New Sun and illuminating the universe.

What is being asked of us, you ask?

You are asked to open your wings and let yourself be carried by the winds. Do not aim to fight the winds, but offer your gratitude for the powers of nature, using them for your own growth. Direct the movement around you to flow through your spine, prying open your resistance, clearing blocks, opening rusted gates that you inherited through many cycles on Earth, so the light from above may flow through you, embraced by Gaia without resistance, blocks, or distortions. Connect to your heart, beginning to breathe in and out from your heart, so it will become your new lungs. Each breath should be from the heart, inhaling gratitude and exhaling love.

Offer gratitude for each heartbeat as you pulsate and breathe; using the frequency of gratitude, you act like a lightning rod attracting the immense electromagnetic power from above, channeling it into Earth. Many of you are now so burdened by your current reading of reality. We ask you to trust that this is just a temporary episode in your movie. When you set up your intention to move higher using love, you create a ripple that rearranges the atoms and molecules around you shifting your landscape, visible or invisible, as a result. The hardship many of you perceive is you moving from the old paradigm into the new. Your dance must include letting go of weight, so you can levitate higher and higher. The loosening of the anchors that hold you in cells, jailed in self-created concepts, must be melted by your inner light. All may seem to be lost at times when all you have known washes away, yet this frees you, catapulting you into higher vibration. When you attach to heaviness giving intent to become light, do not be surprised when that heaviness can no longer remain attached. Bless all heaviness and darkness that is being released and commit to not replacing it with a different heaviness. We see you work so hard on moving higher, rearranging all, shifting your inner terrain, but then, when light does come in and the heaviness clears, some feel so empty that soon they are compelled to find some different heaviness to replace the void, opened by the clearing. With a smile, we say there is never a judgment and we are congratulating you for walking the walk in the first place. With love, we must ask you: why are you in such a hurry to replace heavy with heavy and dark with dark? How about just letting luminosity replace darkness and weightlessness take the place of heaviness?

When you have been programmed to experience life in one way and you get a glimpse of reality in a higher vibration, to many it feels frightening or scary. We ask you, at that moment, to take your time. The unknown is your treasure. Going back to what you know will only move you in circles, but your direction is to move higher. Let the old version break apart. Do not rush to replace it with a newer version. Understand that your story is much greater than you can ever imagine. As the old falls apart, consider that the script may no longer support your new paradigm and it may be time to consider rewriting a new script—one that was never written before. Understand that you are here to break old molds, rebel, and revolutionize the old energy programming. In your past, those who broke the mold were paving the road for the rest to follow. It begins with you realizing that experiencing life is your goal. The “small deaths” that you encounter while walking in life are but opportunities to clear your light so you may walk in the present, fearless, joyful, and in balance with your mission, your purpose. The more fearless you become, the more truthful you become, aligning yourself with your highest path. We ask you to embrace the voids that are created by cleared heaviness and, instead of rushing to fill those voids with new matter, let them remain empty. Begin to let light shine into these holes so the only weight being added is that light, which has no mass. You are paving the way for a new blueprint to be created through your own holographic projection. When you invoke your wings, many say to us, "That cannot be, we cannot fly; we were meant to walk or crawl, but surely not fly. Birds were meant to fly. We have no wings." With a smile, we say to you: wrong answer, you were meant to ascend and fly. You may not use the same aerodynamic laws as birds but you were meant to soar above what you consider your physical reality, joining the expanded family of light that is all around you. As you walk the walk, feel your body; link to your cells; allow each cell to sing within you harmoniously, using love. Draw light into your being, reflecting it to all. Do not explain, preach, convince, or even try to understand. All these acts are the lower self's wishes to be acknowledged for the void created by releasing the heaviness, asking you to fill it back up with a different heaviness. Invoke your inner smile and resist the temptation to take the path you already know. Walk a new path—one that has no defined rules or agendas, and see where you end up. The old is no longer supported by the vibratory rate of your planet or by the intent of your collective. The magnificent masterpiece that you are painting is now being created. As the creator, close your eyes and create those shapes that you have felt in your heart, not those which you remember or have seen before. You are an artist, and the vision that you are now creating is multidimensional. It includes melodic tones which are, from within, illuminated. Set yourself free, invoking your wings, asking them to carry you to that place in your heart that you all know exists—a place where Spirit and human are forever linked. Fear from loss is a gateway you all must pass through as you ascend. Your aim is to dance to the beat of ecstasy, allowing your cells to learn the new orgasmic frequency now available to you, riding on those waves as you walk and interact. Your brothers and sisters who happen to be touched by you will know that something else is happening. This is the new tune. We ask you to play it; be fearless; let the wind be your guide; let the unknown replace the known; let love fill voids of darkness; let massless photons replace the heavy debris of matter. Spread your wings, knowing deep inside of you that you were meant to glide on a higher frequency. It means trusting that you have always been and will always be, that the choices you make on this sacred journey are the reason you are here. Each choice is heard above like the flap of wings. We are in love with you and dance with joy to your melody when you take a step higher. You are so dearly loved, and so be it.